Samsung tv telus universal remote codes

When you upgrade your television, you're likely going to be the proud owner of more TVs than you currently want or need. In this case, look for disposal options, which include recycling. Disposing of Large Electronics Televisions fall into the category of large electronics. These devices are the things that you plug into electric outlets, and they require special disposal methods to make sure they don't sit in landfills. Televisions, amplifiers, printers, computers and other large devices have internal components that should be removed and recycled. If your television is older with a cathode ray tube, it contains hazardous mercury and lead. Most donation centers don't accept these older models, and you'll need to find a recycling center that specifically accepts them. Preparing Your Television for Recycling If your television is a smart TV, reset it to factory settings so that none of your personal information remains in the system. Bundle the cord neatly, and secure it with a rubber band or twist tie. Tape the bundled cord to the television. Test the television to see if it works. When you take it to a recycling center, you'll likely be asked if it's working or non-working. Your local community may offer a bulk waste recycling program for residents. If available, you might be able to schedule a pick-up, or you might be able to take your old television to a recycling center. Some communities offer this service without fees, but others may charge you to recycle your old TV. If you don't have an option for recycling with your community, try a take-back program. Some manufacturers and retailers offer services to accept or pick up electronics, and this service might be free or could involve a fee. Call the manufacturer of your television or a few retailers in your area to see if this is an option too. Find an E-Steward E-Stewards are responsible recyclers located throughout the country. The goal of e-Stewards is to recycle using the highest of standards, which typically include not exporting e-waste and reusing or refurbishing whenever possible. Visit the e-Stewards website to find a participating center near you where you can drop off your television. The search tool on the site enables you to search with your zip code. Other Disposal Options If your television still works, consider donating it instead of recycling it. Many nonprofit organizations accept televisions in working order. Or, you could donate it to a reuse organization that will turn around and give it away to an organization or individual who will use it.
